THREE WORKERS HURT WHEN BURIED IN RUINS OF SOUTH END BUILDING

Three men were injured, a dozen others narrowly escaped death today when a section of temporary flooring in a new structure at Nos. 1120-1124 Harrison avenue caved in, dropping on three workmen in a mass of wreckage.

The injured were Joseph Galasso, 34, of Randolph street; Thomas, 34, of Thornehill street; and possibly fractured skull, came on danger list; Frank Lino, Hoover street, lacerations to the head.

As the flooring went down with a tearing crash heard for blocks, untrained workmen rushed to the aid of their fellows and calls were sent for ambulances to Stations 5, 2 and 10. A number of city laborers working it a nearby street rushed to the rescue.

Water was completely buried in the debris. The other two men narrowly escaped the same fate.

From No. 31 Hendree street, where Galasso lives, his wife heard the crash and came running to the scene. Despite the efforts of other laborers to keep her back, she leaped to her husband's aid and remained with him when he was carried out and placed in an ambulance.

Water was pulled out after, half a ton of bricks and other wreckage had been removed. In the meantime the remaining section of flooring was succeeded over the heads of the rescuers, threatening to come down at any moment.

As soon as the injured men were removed police closed the building until the arrival of city inspectors.

The building where the crash occurred is a new addition being built by the Boston Upholstery Company. The workmen were using tarring.

RAIN CAUSES BOUT TO GO OVER ANOTHER DAY

New York, May 19.—Jack Sharkey and Jim Maloney both hoped today to make it necessary for Tex Rickard to postpone the 15-round fight of the Boston heavyweights until tomorrow night.

Sharkey breezed through a light workout at Sullivan's gym so as to keep his muscles limber, while Maloney went through the paces at St. Nicholas' gym.

This postponement was a hard blow to the thousands of out-of-town fight fans who are here to see the big job.

The weather forecast for tomorrow is that the weather will clear up. In the event that the rain should continue tomorrow, Sharkey and Maloney will not settle their differences until Saturday night.

The Boston Commission announced that it would not be necessary for the rival heavyweights to weigh in until tomorrow afternoon. Posing on the contest was at Please turn to Page 18, Column 2.

BLUES WIN WAR GAME AFTER FIERCE 'BATTLE'

Newport, R. I., May 19.—In a terrific battle, decided by the use of a mobile force, the Blues, which had been held in reserve, the defensive "Blues" today won the game and proved New England impregnable against such an attack as was launched on her southern shore.

The decisive battle, which, though it was only with a narrow line of life on both sides, was fought on land, east of Narragansett Bay, where the enemy "Blacks" fleet landed 20,000 men who had been called on a trip that virtually meant annihilation.

The Blues' impasse have not yet made any decision, but Major-General Preston Brown, commander-in-chief of the defending troops, explained in plain terms to newspapermen that the invaders had been hurled back, divided and bottled up in a hopeless position.

The "Blacks" landing force was repulsed by decisive "Blues" defense, was subjected to the fire of railroad.

FULLER GETS THIRD SACCO 'DEATH' THREAT

A third death threat was received by Governor Fuller today from a Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizer, the writer warning jointly the Governor, the justices of the Supreme Court and Judge Webster Thayer.

In this threatening message, which was not signed, the Governor was "dared" to let the lives of the condemned pair be taken.

"It is hell, is not, to know you cannot bump these two men off without getting bumped off yourself, too, whole lot of you!" it read. "Raise the issue and see how we meet it."

The letter was in pencil and came by mail from Holyoke. For emphasis it was plentifully paraphrased.

A long conference on the case was held today in Governor Fuller's office, with Lieutenant-Governor Frank G. Allen; Joseph Wiggin, the Governor's personal counsel, and Herman MacDonald, his secretary, in attendance. Lieutenant-Governor Allen is ex-officio head of the executive council and it was thought the conference might preclude submission of the case to this body by the Governor.

Addressing Governor Fuller as "Dear Allen," the Rev. John Haynes Holmes of the Community Church, New York City, wrote in another letter that "the verdict of the jury Please Turn to Page 2, Column 3.

Bath, Mich., May 19 (A.P.)—With thirty-seven of its children who yesterday jumped through its streets and six adults lying still in death, this little village of some 500 persons was just beginning today to comprehend the full horror of the maniacal dynamiting yesterday of its consolidated school.

BELLANCA SHIFTS CREW; BERTAUD OUT OF FLIGHT

New York, May 19 (A.P.)—Lloyd Bertaud definitely will not make the Paris flight in the Bellanca monoplane with Clarence Chamberlin, and his successor is already selected. Charles A. Levine, head of the company backing the flight, told the Associated Press today.

Levine's announcement followed tardily on an almost all night conference at the end of which Bertaud had said that all difficulties had been ironed out and that he would go on the flight as navigator, as originally planned.

Levine made no statement at the time, but when reports gained circulation that the situation was not quite as Bertaud believed it to be, Levine was asked to state definitely what the results of the conference were.

"Bertaud is not going," Levine replied. "He is not going."

Search Ruins of School

FRONT VIEW OF DEMOLISHED NORTH WING OF BUILDING
Thirty-six children, kindergarten pupils at the Consolidated School at Bath, Mich., were among the two-score or more lives Andrew Kehoe wiped out when he dynamited the building to get even with the principal, according to the police. These International Newsreel Photos were rushed to Chicago by airplane and relayed to the Boston Evening American over the wires of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

For Bodies of Crazy

REAR VIEW OF WRECKED EDUCATIONAL STRUCTURE
More than a bushel of dynamite was planted in different places in the basement of the school and a wire the farmer is believed to have attached to the engine of his auto is said to have set off the charges. Scores of lives were doubtless saved when some of the charges of dynamite failed to explode. Today 500 men and women were searching the ruins. The dead list total is now 50, nearly all small children.

the destruction of the entire village. Mrs. Kehoe, wife of the maniac, was the first victim of his fury.

Parts of her body were found in the ashes of one of the outbuildings on the Kehoe farm. Her skull was crushed, leading to the belief Kehoe killed her before casting her body into the building to be burned.

Investigation showed that Kehoe entered because of a school tax levied against him and nursing his opposition to the erection of the building three years ago, had carefully mined the basement, installing an elaborate system of electrical wiring connected with a time clock.

His plans called for destruction of the entire structure, with its more than 500 pupils and teachers.

One of the wires he carefully installed became short-circuited and the electric impulses failed to complete its course.

THREE BLASTS IN ALL.

Stricken not only by death, but by debt as well, the village was in dire straits. At Lansing Governor Fred W. Green issued a proclamation calling for State-wide aid in raising funds for relief of the stricken families—one-fourth of the children of the village were killed in the blast—and for the rebuilding of the school. The death toll mounted to 43 with the death in a Lansing hospital of Cleo Clayton, 8, a pupil.

It was this failure that prevented the killing of more than 150 more pupils in another part of the building.

There were three explosions. The first occurred early yesterday morning at Kehoe's home, a mile from doors of village homes took the village, destroying the house, barn and wagon sheds. All occupants were wired to the same timing device.

The second blast was that in the school building. It came at 9:15 a. m., only a few minutes after classes had been assembled. The time has been fixed definitely because all the children in the wrecked wing stopped at that minute. The third blast came in the morning. The third blast came in the morning.

4 BLOWN TO BITS.

Kehoe was sitting in the car. Emory F. Huysk, superintendent of schools, was talking with him, one foot on the running board. Glenn O. Smith, postmaster, and Nelson McFarlan, an aged man, were on the sidewalk. Suddenly a terrific blast came from the machine. The bodies of Kehoe and Huysk were blown to bits. McFarlan was killed outright and Smith so badly injured that he died.

Kehoe's car was torn to pieces.

There are two versions of the explosion in Kehoe's car. One was that he fired a rifle into a load of powder in the tonneau; the other that he set off the blast by touching a button in an electric circuit.

No one actually saw the explosion.

Buddie Kehoe, Huysk, Smith and McFarlan, the other adults killed were Hazel Weiberbe, a teacher, and his wife.

"WELL HAVE FICIN"—KEHOE

Today was to have been the day for the annual school picnic, but, in place of funeral wreaths on the place of preparation of picnic lunches.

Miss Bernice Sterling, first-grade teacher, today recalled telephoning Kehoe early yesterday concerning use of a grove on Kehoe's farm for the festivities.

"When are you going to have the picnic?" she quoted Kehoe as asking. "Thursday," Miss Sterling replied.

"Well, if you're going to have a picnic, you'd better have it right away," was Kehoe's rejoinder.

A State investigation was under way today to determine whether Kehoe was alone in the crime, and also the source of the large quantity of explosive.

CONFEDERATES HUNTED.

According to Charles Lane, State fire marshal, the electrical wiring leading to the dynamite and powder planted in the school was so ingeniously done that he was not sure it could have been installed by one person.

Enough unexploded dynamite and powder was found to fill a small truck and Lane expressed doubt that Kehoe could have gone into the schoolhouse, night after night, with small quantities of the explosive, as would have been necessary had he been unaided.

An hour before the blast Kehoe, with Bert DeWitt, blacksmith and member of the School Board, inspected the building and reported everything all right. The dynamite had been cleverly concealed in the floor.

Frank Smith, janitor, declared Kehoe seemed anxious to "get away from there." Neither Smith nor DeWitt was injured.

Kehoe, a graduate of the Michigan

Dynamiter Was Rated as An Honest Man

Bath, Mich., May 19 (A.P.)—Andrew Kehoe, demented treasurer of Bath's Village School Board, who yesterday wrote himself a black record of crime, was honest in his routine life.

On May 14 he mailed a package to Clyde Smith, a Lansing surety bond agent, containing his records. His accounts balanced within 23 cents.

The package was not received until today because it was mislaid to another postoffice.

Police opened the package. Kehoe's bond as school treasurer was written by Smith.

State College, in opposing establishment of a consolidated school drawing pupils from surrounding farms, claimed the structure would make school taxes burdensome. Recently a mortgage on his farm was foreclosed. His neighbors said he had always "planned something up" around his farm. He was also an accomplished electrician.

HIS "DEATH SIGN."

The wiring for the explosion of the farm house and outbuildings was a complicated affair. A timing apparatus was found, wired in the chicken coop, the only structure not destroyed. Wires were found leading to the house and barn from the telephone line.

Nailed to a tree in front of the house there was a rude sign: "Criminals are made, not born."

The equipment with which Kehoe apparently had planned the explosive in the basement ceiling of the school consisted of 2½ lengths of wire.

Dorchester police are searching for a well-dressed thief who today masquerading as a visitor to the new Dorchester courthouse, entered the probation officer's room and stole a bundle of letters containing money orders and cash which were lying on the desk.

The thief was detected by James A. Nagle, custodian of the building, who chased him through several streets and finally lost him when he leaped over a fence in an alleyway off West Park street, Dorchester.

Autoists Are Told Children Are as God Made Them

Springfield, May 19 (A.P.)—In sentencing William J. Brackley to four months in jail for driving an automobile so as to endanger lives and safety, Judge Callahan today noted drivers in general for disregard of the safety of children, who, he said, have an inalienable right to use the highways.

The court declared that children cannot use more intelligence than God has given them, and he did not intend that a child should have the intelligence of an adult who had been benefited by education and experience.

MOTHER, BABY FLEE ON ROOFS

With her infant, Mrs. Lillian Raffol fled over roof tops in Waltham street, South End, today, escaping a fire that filled the building at Nos. 50 and 51 with smoke. Twelve families fled the structures shortly before dawn, but policemen quelled the fears of the women and children, assuring them the blaze was generating more smoke than real flaming flames. Mrs. Raffol snatched up her son Kenneth, four and a half months old, when she was awakened by smoke, and making her way to the roof, she ran over the tops of buildings, descending into another structure. Others who fled included Mrs. Freddie Salem and Rosa Salem, 31. The blaze started in one of two adjoining stores in the basement, the Star Baking Co. and the whole male grocery store at 2, M. North and smoke progressed through the building by means of the air shaft.

SUNDAY SPORTS CONDEMNED BY CHURCHMEN

Monahan, May 19 (A.P.)—The committee on official report of the Massachusetts Universalist convention today presented a number of outstanding resolutions for adoption by the convention, on most of which favorable action is expected.

The work of the Lords Day League in opposition to Sunday sports was commended and a resolve favored by the committee protested against commercialization of the Sabbath. This action was favored in view of the fact that a legislative bill is said to be planned providing for a "wide-open Sabbath."

The committee favored regulation of roadhouses, saying the increase of motor traffic makes them a nuisance if unregulated. It was recommended a committee of three be appointed to cooperate with the Massachusetts Civic League for improving conditions.

FOR 26 YEARS A BISHOP

CARDINAL MADE A BISHOP 26 YEARS AGO

Quietly observing the twenty-sixth anniversary of his consecration as a bishop today, Cardinal O'Connell revealed the human side of a busy churchman as he grouped 200 students and family members of St. John's Seminary about him and posed them for a picture.

"Lookout or you'll roll down that hill," he cried with a laugh, as a Boston Evening American photographer focused his camera from a steep, grassy slope above the group. He maneuvered the crowd until he had arranged them to please the cameraman and then counted, "One, two, three," to make the "snap" perfect for the little photographer.

It was at his own insistence that the Seminary joined in the picture as they gathered outside the chapel for an informal greeting with the Cardinal arranged to confer the major order of deacon on 24 candidates. At the ceremony that followed in the chapel, he was assisted by Rev. Charles A. Finn, the rector, and Rev. Dr. Joseph Walsh, professor of canon law.

The Cardinal's observance of his passing of the first milestone in his second quarter century as a bishop consisted simply of performing acts which came within the scope of his powers as a bishop, but in other ways, letters and letters, friends in all parts of the United States and abroad recognized the occasion with felicitations. BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Colorful Numbers Perovade the "Reviews of Dance" to Be Given at Repertory Theatre Tomorrow

EVERY AIRY FAIRY COSTUME IS IN READINESS AND every dance step at the highest pitch of perfection for tomorrow's two "Reviews of Dance" at the Repertory Theatre, under Braggiotti direction. Society's youthful dancers—the "Poppies" and the "Corals," the "Gypsies" and the "Tulips," and all the other colorful numbers, are alert for the signal that sends the curtains up on their annual exhibition. Perhaps of all the numbers none will more delight fond parents in the audience than the very small children, who cavort about the stage in a merry flower fantasy directed by Miss Francesca Braggiotti.

SISTER NUMBERS ADORN THE PROGRAM QUITE PROFUSELY. Mrs. Malcolm Lang's five daughters (Margaret, Helen, Amy, Angela and Ethel) do a number called the "Long Bouquet." Miss Esther Grew, daughter of the Edward W. Grews, is one of the brightly dressed "Tulips." Miss Harriette and Miss Leslie Blake do a duet, the first as Shepherd, in leopard print and cap, the second in the airy cliftons of the Shepherds. The three Frothingham girls, Miss Eugenia, Miss Ellen and Miss Olga, do a pretty number, a very finished thing, as is everything these talented girls undertake.

MISS AGNES BOARDMAN AND MISS VIRGINIA CURTIN REPEAT some of the dance numbers that were so much appreciated in the "Vincent Varieties." Their gowns are gossamer veillings and they wear a cluster of roses coquettishly caught behind one ear. The dances are "Rose Petals." Miss Charlotte Lyman, the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald T. Lyman, is one of the "Tulip" maidens, in tulip shaped hats and muslin gowns of bright tulip colors.

MISS EUGENIA FROTHINGHAM Society girl takes part in the "Review of Dance" to be given at the Repertory Theatre tomorrow night.

Hope for finding the wreckage of the missing Nungesser-Colli plane on the surface of the Atlantic ocean was abandoned today by the United States Coast Guard.

The orders, sent out by Captain H. G. Fisher who is temporarily in command, contained one important provision. The commander of any vessel who has reason to believe he might be successful in the search for the missing plane, was directed to keep up the hunt and continue it as long as he deems it advisable.

Fantastic Wires "Find" Nungesser In Odd Places

Paris, May 19 (U.N.S.)—Hundreds of fantastic messages reporting the safety of Captain Nungesser reached the Ministry of Air today.

One message from New Zealand reports that the "White Blimp" was seen flying over the Pacific. Another from Denmark declares Nungesser was forced down at the exact spot where Field Marshal Kitchener was torpedoed.

The Air Ministry investigates all reports which have any chance of probability.

Lines were left wide open as the first of destroyers and patrol boats joined in the search for the wreckage. The entire area in which the wreckage might be found if the sea captain's report was correct has been crossed and re-crossed many times without success. The Coast Guard likewise also joined in the vain effort to find some trace of the fate of the missing French airman.

$391,000 WILL FIGHT LOST BY WOMAN

Springfield, May 19 (A.P.)—The Supreme Court full bench in a decision received here today upheld the will of Mrs. Hannah Barry of this city, in which she bequeathed of $391,000, the bulk of her estate, to two former orphans, William Barry and Louis Blodgett, who were taken by the late Garrett S. Barry and his wife, Hannah, from a Catholic home for destitute children.

The will was contested by Mrs. Mary A. Magenta of Boston, sole heir of kin to Mrs. Barry, on the ground of mental unsoundness and also fraud and undue influence.

GUARD CONFESSED

SLAYER AT TRIAL

Little Rock, Ark., May 19.—Lena Dixon, 16-year-old girl, who confessed slaying Phyllis McDonald, will be well protected during his trial.

BENTLEY IS CALLED MODEL YOUNG MAN

John M. Bentley, whose wife is suing him for alimony, support on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment, was praised on the witness stand in Middlesex Probate Court today, as a model young man.

The testimony was offered by Arthur Roberts of Newton and was admitted over strenuous objections of the attorney for the wife.

Mr. Bentley's reputation for truth and veracity is one of the finest," Roberts testified. "I never heard him curse and I never heard him tell a story that bordered on the line of improbability."

Much of the fight in the suit of Mrs. Bentley and the cruel divorce suit of the husband, who claims desertion, centers about custody of the young son, Junior, of the couple.

Mrs. Bentley's counsel has endeavored, during the trial, to show that the child was afraid of his father, that the father frequently chastised the child, and that he would not let a fit person to have custody of the child.

Mr. Roberts was asked about the relationship between Bentley and the child.

"The child showed no fear of his father," he said. "The first time I saw them together there was perfect sympathy between them. They were playing and romping together on the floor of Bentley's mother's shop. Later Mr. Bentley rode the boy upon his knee and the boy put his arms about his father's neck and kissed him."

The witness told of seeing the father and son together on two occasions, on both of which the greatest affection was displayed by the child for his father.

SAY B. & M. PLAN WOULD TIE UP TRAFFIC

The density of commercial traffic in the Atlantic avenue and Northern avenue districts was emphasized by witnesses testifying today before Attorney Examiner John McLeod of the Interstate Commerce Commission, who has been conducting hearings in the Boston Chamber of Commerce on the dispute between the Boston & Maine Railroad and the Merchants & Miners Transportation Company over the proposed abandonment of harbor lighters and service by the railroad and the substitution of trucks for the inter change of through freight.

E. J. Brehaud, secretary of Mayor Nichols' transportation committee and manager of the Chamber of Commerce civil bureau, testified that 40 per cent of the traffic on Atlantic avenue is of the truck and horse-drawn type.

On Northern avenue his figures show 57 per cent of the traffic as of the slow-moving type comprising trucks and horse-drawn wagons. The Chamber's bridge, over which the trucks of the B. & M. Transportation Company would have to pass on their way to and from Pier 2, South Boston, is the most congested avenue of any of the approaches to Boston.

The last important witness in the present hearing was Charles H. Starnes, general agent of the Merchants & Miners, who testified regarding the type of freight exchanged between the companies.

New Regal Store for Men and Women in Adams House Building

MORE than a quarter of a century separates the opening of the oldest and the newest link in the great chain of Regal Shoe Stores which now stretch across the continent and include all the principal cities from Boston to San Francisco.

Yet the New Regal Shoe Store in the Old Adams House, 569 Washington Street, is not more than a quarter of a mile from the original Regal Store which was opened 34 years ago at 109 Summer Street in the heart of the wholesale leather district of Boston.

At that time the South Station had not been built. There were no automobiles on the street. No airplanes flying overhead or overseas. No electric cars running underground or on the surface. John Shepard, the well known merchant, and George Hall, owner of the Adams House were racing horses on the old Mill dam, which is now a part of Commonwealth Avenue. Nathan Mathews was Mayor of Boston and Roger Walcott was Governor of Massachusetts, and President Coolidge was a student at Amherst College.

Now, while all these changes have been going on, we have been selling Regal Shoes in Boston every day for the last 34 years. There is no change in the Management or Policy of the Regal Shoe Company.

The Founder of this Business is now the President of this Company. The man who sold the first pair of shoes in the first Regal Store on Summer Street continues to direct the Policy of a National Institution.

We have kept pace with the growth of Boston, kept faith with the people of Boston, and are still doing business on the old Regal Platform on which this business was started in Boston 34 years ago—One Price, One Quality, One Profit—from Maker to Wearer.

Increased Volume concentrated on One Quality reduces our Factory expense and increases our Factory production. Shipping direct to our own chain of Stores from Coast to Coast, with One Standard Price for all Styles in every Store, cuts the cost of selling.

You gave us the Volume that made the Value possible, and today the Regal Shoe Company is the largest One Price manufacturing retailer of high grade shoes in the world.

This beautiful new Regal Store is fully equipped with the new Scientific Racer Fitting Machine. This unique and exclusively Regal device, strongly endorsed and adopted by the U. S. Government, has taken the "guess" out of shoe fitting. It is the only scientific fitting device ever introduced that automatically and accurately measures the length and width of both feet at the same time under the weight of the body.

RUM REFERENDUM BILL UP TO ILLINOIS SENATE

Springfield, Ill., May 19 (A.P.)—A measure calling for a State-wide referendum on repeal of the Illinois prohibition enforcement laws, approved in the lower house of the State Legislature by a vote of 50 to 10, was reported to the Senate today and immediately referred to the committee on finance and miscellaneous business.

Senator Adolph Marks of Chicago, whose delegation in the House voted almost solidly for the measure, is chairman of the committee.

CAMPETIN DROVE SUIT

In August, 1926, with her husband and several children, staying at camps on Pleasant Lake, near Tipton, and the West branch of the Kennebec. She then identified Dr. Taylor and Miss Murray as women who she had seen in the camps. She said she had seen them together frequently.

"I saw them strolling down a lane at one time and they were walking hand in hand," she added. "At another time I saw them in a power boat. On Monday, before lunch, I saw them again, but this time they had a little boy with them."

Earl E. Bernack, president of a private detective agency, testified that, following a long-distance telephone call, he and a number of men, including one of his operatives, left Boston and they started for Maine. Q.—Who was in the party that followed the couple, Taylor, Taylor, myself, Townsend and a driver. We picked up Deputy Sheriff Joseph and went on to Lake Umbagog, coming to a house in the camp which belonged to a Mr. Marc at Tarrat.

The detective said that Rosenberg, at the side of the house, asked for the children and went over and peered through the window blinds. He then returned to the house and they started for Maine. Q.—Who was in the party that followed the couple, Taylor, Taylor, myself, Townsend and a driver. We picked up Deputy Sheriff Joseph and went on to Lake Umbagog, coming to a house in the camp which belonged to a Mr. Marc at Tarrat.

DEFENSES THE DOCTOR.

Ludwig Franks of Auburn, Me., who testified that he overheard an account of Dr. Taylor and that he (Franks) heard the Lake Umbagog doctor occupied, took the stand in the afternoon. Q.—You were questioned by Edward S. Underwood, senior counsel for Dr. Taylor, and he had said that Dr. Taylor and Miss Murray Lake Pleasant, that they were there at his invitation and that he never has seen them. Q.—Did you ever notice any act of affection either on the part of Dr. Taylor toward Miss Murray, or on the part of Miss Murray toward Dr. Taylor? A.—No, I never did. Q.—Who constituted the party when the doctor went to Lake Pleasant to occupy the cottage? A.—The doctor, Mrs. Taylor, the boy and the doctor's mother.

Woman Dies After 32 Hours of Artificial Breath "Pumping"

Huntsville, Ala., May 19 (A.P.)—After being kept alive for 32 hours by artificial respiration, Mrs. T. H. Fallow, 31, died today. She became ill Tuesday night with what physicians diagnosed as a fluid clot on the brain which paralyzed nerve controlling respiration. Eight men alternately worked over her, forcing air into her lungs.

Mrs. Fallow was in a semi-conscious state throughout her illness and was unable to take food.

SEND U. S. DOCTOR TO EXAMINE CARROLL

Washington, May 19 (A.P.)—A physician will be sent to Greenville, S. C., to examine Earl Carroll, the theatrical producer, and determine whether he is fit to continue his journey to Atlanta Federal prison to serve a year and a day for perjury. It was announced at the Department of Justice today.

Carroll collapsed several weeks ago while being taken to the prison and has since been in a Greenville hospital.

plied. "That is definite. His successor has been selected, but his identity will not be revealed until the plane is ready to be flown."

All three planes were ready today for the start as soon as the weather permitted.

During the morning the giant Fokker America, in which Bertaud, Noville and Acosta will fly for Paris, was trundled from its hangar and sent surging into the air.

Because of adverse winds, however, the final hour test of 14,000 pounds was not made, the flight being merely a speed and instrument trial. After 15 minutes in the air the America returned to the hangar and it was announced no flights would be made today.

Both the Columbia and Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis," remained in their hangars, Lindbergh being ready to leave as soon as the weather man gives the signal and Chamberlain and Lindbergh waiting after their almost night-long conference which ended with announcement that all differences between them and backers had been settled.

PICKFORD TO BE DIVORCED

Colonel William Heywood will represent Mr. Pickford and Dudley Field Malone will act as counsel for Miss Miller.

Pickford said that Marilyn, who now is in Chicago, will sail for France soon and that he will follow her aboard a short time later. A Paris tribunal will be petitioned for a divorce on the grounds of incompatibility. But what appear at the proceedings, he said, as Miss Miller will not be forced to establish a reason for the divorce.

The marriage of Jack Pickford and Marilyn Miller was one of the big social events in Hollywood. They were married July 11, 1923, at the home of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks in Beverly Hills. The wedding was a half-year later.

Neither gave any reason for their separation at that time, although it was assumed it was due to their careers. Miss Miller was kept busy in New York, and motion picture activities kept Mr. Pickford in California.

Mr. Pickford expects to continue his work, and is now considering an offer to direct in Europe. Miss Miller is now in Chicago, finishing her season in "Roxbury," next year she will be starred in a musical comedy under the direction of Florenz Ziegfeld. As a dancer she has few equals in the American stage. Her blonde beauty and her ability as an actress have established her as a great favorite.

PASTOR FIGHTS MOTHER OVER $300,000 WILL

The Rev. George M. Barford, 50-year-old Baptist minister, honor graduate of Harvard and holder of half a dozen college degrees, who has been in the Medford State Hospital for more than a year, was the central figure in a $300,000 trust fund fight which opened in Middlesex Probate Court today.

The minister's mother, Mrs. Lillian M. Barford of Somerville, together with the Rev. William H. Dykes, pastor of a Somerset church, seek to prevent the Harvard man from gaining control of the $300,000 fund. Under the terms of his father's will, the fund was to be turned over to him on his 30th birthday, Oct. 13 of last year.

According to the testimony of Elsie H. Cahoon, superintendent of the Medford hospital, the Rev. Mr. Barford is suffering from an "undiscovered psychosis."

MOTHER "MOLESTED HIM."

The minister testified that while he was living at home he was forced to barricade the door of his bedroom to keep his mother out, after she refused to secure a lock for his bedroom door.

The minister's younger brother, Arthur, is also an inmate of the Medford hospital.

In 1919 George M. Barford, 20, died at home in Somerville. He named his wife as executrix of his will and his wife and son, Arthur, George M. 12, and Arthur, aged 9, as heirs.

This will also created a trust fund with the widow as sole executrix of the youth reached the age of 21, at which time the fund would be paid to him from the fund and at the age of thirty each was to receive half the principal of trust fund, the widow to continue executrix of it, respectively.

On January 26, 1924, the young minister was confined to the Medford hospital by order of the Somerville court. On October 13, of the same year, the minister reached the age of thirty. The minister was sent to the hospital on April 10, 1924 and is still there.

HE "ACTED STRANGELY."

Attorney Hoy Irish, representing the mother, told the court in opening the case today that the mother did not think her son capable of handling his money and simply wished it to be safeguarded.

Dr. Cahoon said that while the minister had a brilliant mind, he was extremely lax in habits and was prone to eat certain foods he would eat strangely. The patient, he said, had a taste for queer and unusual foods.

He complained of indigestion after eating certain foods he would eat strangely. The patient, he said, had a taste for queer and unusual foods.

On November 5, 1924, the superintendent said he discharged the minister from the hospital, but on February 1 of this year he returned to the institution voluntarily.

He said the minister would not so much as touch his mother sent to the hospital.

The minister, testifying in his own behalf, said:

"I don't like the term, because my mother molested me. I had great difficulty in sleeping during December and January of 1923-24. I did not sleep until 4 in the morning. I weighed 38 pounds at that time. My mother used to come into the room at 7 a. m. and shut the shades, set out her carpet sweeper and ironing board, and while I was awake, a heavy sleeper, she would wake me when I had two hours sleep."

"FIVE-AND-TEN JAG" GIVES MALDEN COURT A LAUGH

One of the cheapest jags reported in Malden District Court since pre-Valentine days came to light today when Louis Dodge, a house painter, was arraigned.

"Where did you get it?" asked Judge Alfred G. Davis. "Over at the 'five and ten,'" was Louis' reply.

Amidst laughter of all in the courtroom it was explained that Louis while working on a house had been drinking with a friend, the plumber recommended the five and ten store as having the "real prohibition" buy rum.

When Louis was arrested he still had two bottles left, making the cost of one beautiful souce 10 cents. He was placed on probation.

SEAL INVADES YARMOUTH MAIN STREET TO DIE

Yarmouth, May 19 (A. P.)—Two state policemen conducted a hunt and hunt in the main street here. The animal, eight feet long and weighing about 400 pounds, floundered through the marshes two miles from Barnstable Bay in Kings highway, the main road through Yarmouth. An automobile struck it a glancing blow, angering the animal so that it snarled at passers by who gathered near.

A call was sent to the state police barracks at Barnstable. The policemen killed the seal.

Seals are not uncommon in Barnstable Bay, but Yarmouth's visitor is said to be the first to invade the principal street of the village.

DECLARE MIND IS CAUSE OF DISEASE

Washington, May 19 (AP)—The role that mind plays in disease is the subject of a new book, "The Mind as Cause of Disease," by Dr. Charles H. Nungesser, published by the American Medical Association. The book is a collection of essays by leading authorities on the subject, and is the first of its kind. It is a valuable contribution to the study of the mind-body connection.

Mexicans Kill Fifteen

Nungesser Tells of Last Fights in War

Recall to the final installment of the story of the thrilling World War adventures of Captain Charles Nungesser, written by the French ace pilot and his biographer, Captain Francis Gals.

When discharged I went to Verdun and began flying again with Lenoir, Chappuis, Brindonne and De Montcaumon, all of whom became famous. I had to walk with a cane, speech was difficult, and I now had a bad cough, but I had no intention of giving up flying. I was a pilot, and I was going to stay one.

HUNDREDS IN THE AIR

There were hundreds of planes in the air, and the fighting was intense. The German planes were very fast, and they were very accurate. They were very dangerous, and they were very deadly. They were very much to be feared.

AIDS BRITISH FLIER

I was taking a flight when I saw a British plane in trouble. It was in a bad position, and it was in danger. I decided to help it, and I did so. I was very happy to do so, and I was very proud of myself.

DOWN PLANES

Seeing the Spad up at a sharp curve, I brought it above the German and dropped a hand grenade. It was very effective, and it was very deadly. It was very much to be feared.

IT BULLETS IN BODY

With a shattering force I saw the wing suddenly bend upward, and the Spad made a plunge. Then there was a crash, and I felt a sharp pain strike through me, and all became black before my eyes. I was very much to be feared.

As long as the "girl of his dreams" is merely a vague vision of his imagination he can philosophize about her from the vantage point of his bachelor arm-chair with perfect safety and beautiful wishfulness.

But when she suddenly materializes before his eyes, he grabs his hat with one hand, grasps his freedom with the other and springs for cover. There is nothing so terrifying to a man as the sensation of feeling himself falling in love!

A woman glides into love gracefully and luxuriously, as a swimmer glides into the water. But a man just stumbles and sinks into it as he would sink into the quicksands, kicking and struggling every step of the way!

And nine times out of ten he turns for help to some fifty little women who "save" him and marry him—and makes him miserable forever after.

He will dodge the girl who seems to be getting the slightest hold on his heart—and run right into the clutches of the first girl who soothes his fears and gives a stronghold to his senses.

The DANGEROUS woman in a man's life is not the one who interests and fascinates him, but the harmless-looking little dumbbell to whom he turns for safety, sympathy and amusement. Not the woman who appeals to his mind and stimulates his imagination—but the one who acts as a sedative.

That is why so many men marry DUMB BELLS!

A dumbbell looks so innocuous, innocent and helpless that the most hard-boiled bachelor feels "that he can "play around" with her without for a moment endangering his liberty.

A man cannot realize that there may be just as much will-power and won't power behind a baby-face as behind a pale of horn-rimmed spectacles.

Alas, he can never foresee the clinging, choking force of a pair of dimpled arms, guided by pure selfish instinct and the animal desire to hold on to whatever it craves.

Thus, the finest type of man so often walks deliberately into a life of suffocation, boredom, and tyranny—while the finest woman are so often left to pick up the broken shells on the tide of life.

WAS ASHAMED TO BE SEEN
Face Disfigured With Pimples, Cuticura Heals.

"My trouble started with small blotches and affected my face. Later they turned into very hard, large, red pimples that fastened and scabbed over. They itched and burned causing me to scratch, and the scratching caused eruptions. I lost a great deal of sleep on account of the irritation. My face was disfigured so that I was ashamed to have anybody see me."

I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and got relief in about a week. I continued using them and in six weeks was healed. (Signed) Joseph B. Beaumont, Jr., 317 Revere St., Revere, Mass., July 15, 1925.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON: 1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land;
in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND: 1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.

3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

Who Better Qualified to Speak of "Ships" Than the Boys and Girls of Portland?

The theme of the graduating exercises of the Portland High School senior class, to be held next month, will be "Ships," evidence that Maine's first city knows which side its bread is buttered on and that the young people are as keenly interested in trading as their elders.

Parts have been assigned to eleven members. Some one of them, we may be sure, will have something interesting to offer concerning the "Virginia of Sagadahoc," the first vessel built in this country.

The Virginia, of the type of the English pinnace, was put together in 1607. It was only a small affair, but it several times made the crossing of the Atlantic.

When wooden ships were the thing, the oak and the white and yew pine of the Maine forests kept New England's shipyards busy. Massachusetts records for the 40 years from 1674 to 1714 show the launching of more than 1,000 ships for the American merchant fleet, besides 240 vessels sold abroad.

Marion Ratcliffe, Margaret Hunt, Louise Dorman or President Lewis Lamson may also mention the "Blessing of the Bay," built in 1621 at Medford; but we hope "27's" orators will not dwell too much upon the fact that New England is turning to the sea, again. What does Portland see there? What are the possibilities of the State Pier? How are they to be realized? How closely can the Pier be linked to the farms of the Pine Tree State?

Portland High's graduates, we know, will handle a splendid theme intelligently and interestingly. They are setting other New England high schools a good example.

"U. S. of Europe"

Only a Poet's Dream!

Governor Fuller's contribution to the American Merchant Marine Library Association was a copy of Victor Hugo's "Les Misérables."

His Excellency did not offer the most melodramatic of Hugo's melodramas as the "best" novel, but merely as his own favorite.

There will be plenty of time at sea to read Hugo and many sailormen will share the Governor's enthusiasm for the "story of a galley slave and a woman of the town."

The hero is a repentant offender, who wishes to redeem his fault, to become again an honest man, and who cannot because the law bars against him all avenues to respectability and success.

Our young friends who take up "Les Misérables," on Governor Fuller's recommendation, should read also a biography of the Port of France. They will discover that, having first achieved distinction as a poet, he was success as a dramatist and late in life turned to the novel. They will learn, too, that he suffered more than a little because of his POLITICAL views.

An intense royalist, Hugo renounced his monarchical principles in favor of democracy. In 1830, he prophesied that all Europe would have the republic "in a century." "We have for our device," he said, "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity!" We write upon our flag, "United States of Europe!"

Jean Valjean AND Victor Hugo, BOTH may be made profitable studies.

Honor Roll

Merely a Reminder

From all that has been said about conditions in the cotton textile industry one might have supposed that collecting any sizeable amount of money in the city of Lowell, for the relief of the flood sufferers, would be almost out of the question. The Spindle City fund, nevertheless, is now about $12,000.

Several cities just as large as Lowell, and which put on more airs, have not done so well.

There are thousands of New Englanders who never have heard of the town of Owl's Head, in Maine, but Owl's Head also is entitled to honorable mention. It is less than seven years of age, as an incorporated township, having been "set off" from the city of Rockland.

Assigned a quota of $32, Owl's Head has turned over to the Red Cross the sum of $135—and is collecting more. In Gloucester, Massachusetts, the honor pupils of the high school have abandoned the customary trip to Boston in flood that the money it would cost might be added to the Flood Relief Fund.

All of which is printed briefly here in the hope that it may be a spur to prick the sides of good intent. Checks may be sent to the American Red Cross, No. 45 Newbury Street, Boston. The need is great.

"Needled" Beer

Four Times More Speakeasies Than Saloons Formerly

Once upon a time in big cities you would see four different beer saloons on four different corners. Too many beer saloons, and the owners made the profit selling whiskey. Brewers competing with each other flattered whiskey selling and thus brought prohibition upon their industry.

When prohibition came in the saloon went out. APPARENTLY, "one whiskey is poisonous. The beer drunk under prohibition is "NEEDED," dosed with bad alcohol with a huge syringe, something like a hypodermic needle, that pierces the bunglehole.

In great cities there are four times as many "speakeasies" as there were beer saloons. The bootleg industry has financed the underworld, making of crime one of the great "industries" of the United States.

Prohibition cannot be a success YET.

Feminine Side of the Big Fight

CAN YOU CONCEIVE WASTING AN AFTERNOON OF A BIG FIGHT WITH IDLE TALK OF THIS SORT?

'FIGHT? WHY MY HUSBAND WOULD NO MORE THINK OF A PRIZE ME IF HE COULD GO TO SEE A PRIZE FIGHT THAN HE WOULD FLY. HE ISN'T INTERESTED IN SUCH LOW FORMS OF SPORT. THE IDEA OF GOING WAY TO NEW YORK FOR A FIGHT IS FOOLISHNESS.'—MRS. DICK T. TOWN.

WE WONDER IF FIGHTERS WIVES ARE LIKE SOME OTHERS WE'VE MET.

MY DEAR, WHAT DO YOU SUPPOSE THE GIMMICKS ARE HAVING BUILT IN YOUR YARD, OF ALL THINGS! A BIRD BATH. IMAGINE SPENDING HARD EARNED MONEY FOR A BIRD BATH. SHE IS ARGUING TELLING EVERYBODY ABOUT HER BIRD BATH.

WHAT ME GO TO A PRIZE FIGHT? WHY YOU COULD NOT DRAG ME TO ONE OF THOSE DEGRADING BRUTAL EXHIBITIONS WITH WILD HORSES. THE IDEA TUP-TUP.

By Franklin Collier

I DON'T SUPPOSE YOU COULD TRAIN BY PUTTING ON A FEW ASH BARRELS AT HOME! PROBABLY YOU WOULD LIKE TO HAVE ME DO IT WHILE YOU ARE OUT HAVING A GOOD TIME HITTING A FOOLISH LOOKING BAG AND A LOT OF SPARKING PARTNERS, WHILE I AM SLAVING MYSELF TO DEATH DOING HOUSE WORK! * * * * * IF A BIG STRONG MAN LIKE YOU GETS A SPLINTER IN HIS FINGER THEY RUN IT IN ALL THE PAINERS, BUT IF HIS WIFE BREAKS HER BACK BRINGING UP COAL, NOBODY CARES.

I DON'T SUPPOSE IT WOULD BE EXERCISE TO MOW THE LAWN OR TAKE OFF THE STORM WINDOWS, NO! BUT IF A TRAINER SAID TO DO IT, YOU'D THINK IT WAS WONDERFUL IF I SUGGESTED IT'S DIFFERENT! ALL THE NEIGHBORS PITY ME FOR HAVING A HUSBAND WHO WILL LET HIS WIFE CURL HER OWN HAIR.

BLUE LAWS MUST BE CHANGED

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THEY have been having trouble down in South Carolina with their blue laws. Old laws that have been upon the statute books forbidding golf and other innocent diversions have been discovered and enforced.

Laws have to be kept up to date as well as other things. The complexion and structure of society, as well as the opinions held by the majority of its citizens, alter with time.

Laws compelling people of the present day to do what in former days it was thought should not have been done are no popular.

Law is nothing but crystallized custom. Its purpose is to keep everyone from unduly disturbing his fellows.

There is a law against stealing and murder and arson for the simple reason that these things interfere with the rights of other people and not because they are morally wrong.

The first duty of society and its first impulse is to protect itself. Sometimes it goes to the extreme and laws are passed requiring everybody to keep step whether they want to or not.

Just how far the individual must be compelled to act like his fellows is a question that requires the careful judgment of competent authorities.

The instinct of personal liberty, which is in all of us, demands that a man have a right to act and think as he pleases, but that is limited by the rights of other people. He is not to infringe upon them.

In the days when most of the people went to church it was right perhaps for others not to disturb them, but if the complexion of society changes and more people are found upon the golf links than in church on Sundays, what right has the minority to control the majority?

All the trouble with blue laws has been caused by digging up laws passed by a former generation and making them apply to this.

There must be evolution in law as in everything else. Law is essentially a rule of conduct and its purpose is to keep the social machine in order and to prevent the minority from disturbing the majority.

If the opinion of the majority has changed and what was wrong five hundred years ago becomes innocent diversion now, the laws should be changed in regard to it.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELS.
I HAVE hungered sometimes for a murmur of song that would answer the song in my heart. I have thirsted for lyrics just drifted along like the wind through the trees. I have sought for a ballad in a rhymed couplet or the voice of a willow, wind-blown, or a music I love, the sweet, plaintive cry of a matinee-dance, or the crystal-clear laugh of a child.

BOSTON DAY BY DAY

ON TIME
J. FRANK FACEY, secretary of the New England Amateur Athletic Association for the past 21 years, crosses Massachusetts avenue at Central square, Cambridge, at 12:45 every morning from his printing shop at No. 35 Prospect street to his time regularly in the well known that one day recently as he was crossing one of his many friends looked up at one of the Central square clock to check him up and to behold it was only 12:00 o'clock. A check, however, showed that the clock was wrong and not the popular official of the B. A. A.

TRIES HIS HAND
HEADMASTER MAURICE J. O'BRIEN of the High O'Brien and Ralph W. Moore schools in Roxbury tested his skill as traffic officer on Dudley street recently and got first hand information on the mental powers necessary to protect lives from reckless drivers. He is an active member of Rose Croix Council, Knights of Columbus, and takes an interest in all questions of public moment.

PARKING LIMIT
MOTORISTS who have been in the habit of using the streets of CAMBRIDGE as parking places while they go to their places of business in BOSTON via the Cambridge tunnel, will be compelled to seek new fields. The Cambridge City Council has an amendment to the ordinance before it which will make it illegal to park automobiles for more than 15 minutes during the morning hours in the vicinity of any of the tunnel stations.

WITNESS
THOMAS J. LYONS, well known resident of NEWTON, has done a great deal in his time towards settling the alien question. Not a few foreign born residents of his city have "TOM" to thank for the fact that they enjoy the rights and privileges of American citizenship today.

In fact, on one occasion when "TOM" appeared in the Federal court for "non" time to testify in behalf of an applicant for naturalization, one of the court attaches remarked in just to the presiding judge, "Perhaps we should not let this man testify. He is getting to be a professional witness."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"WE SIMPLY can't get him to listen," said Mrs. Wright, with mournful eyes upon son Jim.

"He's eighteen now and there isn't a brighter boy in his school. He's a fine youngster at home and of course, we're all crazy about him. He's never got into any of these dangerous things, and yet, when he goes to school, he's always in the principal's office."
